TODAY

PDG Tony Fryer reported on the District changeover and reminded us of District's role and the part we have played in it over the years.

Paul Tipping introduced an Auckland friend Silas Xi and Laury Sinclair introduced Wendy Creurer and David Buist of Healthy Heroes.

President Graeme Waters reminded us that next week's meeting is changeover on Wednesday evening. There is still room if you have not bought a ticket but if you want to go you need to contact Ross Foubister promptly and arrange payment with him.

ADG Lionel Nunns said that being an Assistant District Governor was a great experience getting to know 4 other clubs. He said our club does things well but we differed from those clubs in having few women members. He wished John Mohi well for the next year as John undertakes an ADG role.

Maurice Manttan is happy that the boring warm weather has ceased. Lionel Nunns has got over a gammy knee and Brian Poole is happy that wife Janet received an award at Inner Wheel.

TODAY'S SPEAKER

Emily Simons

Majestic Monsters Art objects in the Bronze Age Aegean

Emma Anderson introduced her colleague Emily Simons who has been working in Katherine Mansfield house after completing her masters degree and spending 6 weeks in Crete. She has now been accepted into the Cambridge PhD programme and subject to funding will soon be taking that up.

She spoke briefly about what art is and its different purposes and than the art of the Bronze Age Aegean and in particular as shown in seals which commonly depicted griffons. The seals are small and were used as seals and large numbers of them which have have survived to this day which suggests that they may also have been used as a medium of exchange. They were highly decorative and made from precious and semi precious metals and stones. A griffon combines parts of an eagle and of a lion, creatures which are commonly used as symbols of power but if this was the case with the griffon it is not clear whether it would have been divine or terrestrial power.

We do not know enough about the people who made them and used them to know much more than that for certain. The Bronze Age in the Aegean came to an end about 1300 BCE for reasons that are unclear and a lot of information about it was lost. Emily is enthusiastic about her subject and she transmitted this enthusiasm to her audience and made us interested. How much information we will retain is perhaps another matter.
